

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a high frequency semiconductor device, a shield plate which is connected to the ground potential is provided above an MMIC structure including line conductors, with an insulating interlayer provided therebetween. By using the shield plate to shield the MMIC, interference caused by external electromagnetic waves or leakage of electromagnetic waves to the exterior can be reduced in a chip alone.